Board Speeds Up Drive On Honky Tonks

Suspensions and Revocations of Licenses Number 25 After Action By Authorities

Montgomery, Ala., May 17—Closed retail beer outlets, dotted the map of Alabama's 25 "wet" counties today—evidence that Alabama's Alcoholic Beverage Control Board meant business when it ordered establishments to "clean up or close up."

Chairman E. Roy Albright of the board announced that 10 licenses had been revoked and 15 suspended upon reports of field agents that these establishments were violating the ABC law and bringing complaints from citizens.

David E. Dunn, director of Alabama beer industry's self-regulation program, praised the board for its quick action, declaring: "Public opinion, once aroused, can operate to bring about an end to these undesirable conditions, and the board's determined drive is paving the way for attainment of that goal in a laudable manner."

Dunn, who initiated cases against six of the 10 establishments where licenses were revoked, said that he believed the general conduct of beer outlets had improved considerably since launching of the board's intensive drive two months ago.

Board action, announced by Chairman Albright, follows:

Revocations: Fairfield Grill, Fairfield; Mecca Hotel, Birmingham; Batchelor Inn, Russellville; Mountain View Inn, Tuscumbia; Midway Service Station, Tuscumbia; Narmore's Place, Sheffield; Yarbrough's Place, West Point; Indian Creek Store, Madison; Green Lantern, Huntsville; Frank's Place, Montgomery.

Sixty-day suspensions: Club Alabama, Birmingham; Mountain Brook Grill, Birmingham; Bungalow, Birmingham.

Thirty-day suspensions: Burger's Inn, Birmingham; Green Lantern Tourist, McCalla; Moon River Beach, Irondale; Blue Crane, Birmingham; Ironwood Inn, Irondale; Fred and Jean's Tavern, Trussville; Jack's Tavern, Birmingham; White Pig Barbecue, Leeds; Rose Hill Tourist Camp, Irondale; Cozy Corner Barbecue, Birmingham; Bill's Place, Helena; Mack's Barbecue, Birmingham.

Sessions will be held in a campus classroom and will be devoted to lectures and discussions. The practicum sessions, arranged according to the student-teacher's schedules, will be devoted to laboratory and road work. Senior Class Holds Annual Banquet

On Friday, May 12, the senior class of Montevallo High School entertained with its annual banquet in the Elementary School cafeteria. The tables were beautifully decorated with pink roses and lighted candles. After a delicious meal, served by the ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society, members of the class took part in a short program which was led by Donald Vaughan, acting as toastmaster. Regret was expressed for the absence of the president, Owen Bridges.

Annie Laurie Ingram, lending a note of humor to the evening, read the class will. Peggy Payne then sang "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair" and Brahms' "Cradle Song." The class prophecy, by Bud Miltstead, added to the merriment of the group. Martha Martin gave two readings. Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, room-mother, and W. F. Tidwell, principal, acknowledged expressions of thanks with short speeches.

About 8:30 o'clock the students, faculty members, and friends went to the college field house where they danced until 11:30. While there they were served delicious punch made by home economics pupils. Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. James Varnell, Mrs. Glennie Nybeck, Misses Elizabeth Utterback, Vinnie Lee Walker, Ouida Thompson, Wilma Baugh, and Mr. Leon Hicks.

FORMER ALABAMIAN PLAYS BIG PART IN SETTLEMENT OF COAL STRIKE

There has been a lot of news in the printed columns of the newspapers these days concerning war, fire and what not, but it is doubtful if any piece of news is more vital to the people of Birmingham and Alabama than the present coal tieup. . . . After the coal leaders and the union leaders failed to come to any sort of agreement either pro or con, the United States Government stepped in with a young, sandy-haired fellow named John Steelman to work as a mediator and to get the situation cleared up as far as the government was concerned. . . . Needless to say, Steelman has had a great deal to do with the steps taken toward clarifying the situation. . . . Rather unique is the fact that Steelman is known all over Alabama, especially by former students of Alabama College at Montevallo, not as a coal situation clearer-upper, but as a professor of economics. . . . It seems Steelman taught hundreds and hundreds of girls at the Central Alabama institution the whys and wherefores of economics as it pertains to this ever-changing age. — William Ennis, in The Birmingham News.

Cotton Council Directs Campaign

County committeemen are putting on a renewed drive to bring to an early, successful conclusion the drive for Alabama-Florida Unit's quota to the National Cotton Council. Several of the counties have already over-subscribed their quotas and reports from those that have not indicate an early subscription to their allotment. All cotton growing states are participating in putting this organization over.

The National Cotton Council has launched an aggressive campaign to bring the consumption of American cotton and cottonseed and its products to a new high level, fully realizing, as everyone in the cotton belt should, the dependence of prosperity in the South on the welfare of the cotton industry. Cotton is certainly the life blood of the cotton South.

The importance of the organization has a strong appeal in the united front put on by the five major groups in the raw cotton industry; namely, producers, ginners, warehousemen, crushers, and merchants, to fight for and devise new uses for American cotton and cottonseed products. This is the problem of the Entire South.

Montevallo Study Club Reviews Work Of Past Year At Open Meeting

The Montevallo Study Club held its annual open meeting last Wednesday afternoon at the Girl Scout house. Club members always look forward to this meeting with a peculiar pleasure because they can invite friends as guests and share with them their enthusiasm for the club and tell them what the organization has been doing during the year. This past year has been one of outstanding success and accomplishment. Under the able leadership of Mrs. Wills, all committees have worked hard. There are twenty members in the club. Every person has made some contribution in promoting club activities.

The Welfare Committee raised money through a rummage sale and used it for five tonsilectomies. Five baskets of food at Christmas were fixed and given to the needy. This committee also sponsored a sale of blind made goods sent out from the School for the Blind at Talladega.

The Civic Committee sponsored a most needy clean up campaign in the town last August. Also, it promoted the city paving project, spending hours in circulating necessary petitions and building up public sentiment for the undertaking.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Wills, the Crippled Children's Clinic drive was put on, some more than

Baptists To Raise $65,000 For Howard

Birmingham, Ala.—Decisive steps toward lowering the current debts of Howard College were taken at a meeting here of representatives of nearly 100 Baptist Churches, when it was voted to raise $35,000 for this purpose in the Birmingham district.

The Alabama Baptist State Convention has already voted, at its recent special meeting in Montgomery, to raise $65,000 for Howard College. With the Birmingham district assuming $35,000 of this amount, the rest of the state has assumed the balance of $30,000.

The Birmingham campaign is being directed by Dr. John H. Buchanan and Dr. A. H. Reid. Frank P. Samford, Howard trustee, heads the state drive. President-elect Harwell Davis, of Howard, is being consulted with regard to all activities in the campaign.

The $35,000 goal for the Birmingham district has been apportioned equally among the various churches in the area. On Sunday, June 4, ministers of every Birmingham district Baptist church will speak in their pulpits for the campaign.

Dr. Reid said at the meeting here: "This campaign must succeed. Howard has a distinguished history of 97 years, and now faces a new and glorious future. The college has been in Birmingham 52 years, and has made a definite contribution to the religious, cultural, and economic life of the community and state. Howard will project her influence into the future with increasing greatness."

Organization meetings similar to the one held in Birmingham are being held all over the state, and Sunday, June 4, is the day selected to raise the $65,000.

HAVE WE AN OPPORTUNITY FOR BETTER HIGHWAY FACILITIES?

Montevallo should be alert with a view toward getting in on some of the present and future plans of the state for paving more highways.

If we do not get busy and do something, in a few months the routes will be established and the plans made. Then in a few years we will see the new roads paved and they will be running through other towns than Montevallo.

What are our chances to get in on some of these possible plans?

We do not know, and so far as is evident, no one is making any effort to find out.

For some years there has been talk about a highway from Bessemer through Montevallo, and connecting with the Birmingham-Montgomery highway somewhere south of here.

Bessemer people have tried to interest Montevallo in pulling for such a road. They found little real interest in the matter here. In fact, they found enough out-spoken opposition from some Montevallo business men to cause them to conclude that Montevallo does not want such a highway. They apparently, therefore, have dismissed us from the picture with the natural conclusion that we are a dumb bunch of creatures down here to act that way.

Montevallo could have been on one of the state's main highways years ago if the community had been alert to its opportunities and had pushed forward toward that goal.

We can yet improve our highway situation, if we want to and are willing to assert ourselves.

But we can sit still and do nothing and continue to be in a jug with Calera sitting on the stopper.

We might get a paved road from Siluria through Montevallo and on down to the big highway at Shaw's store. But if we get it, Montevallo is going to have to put up the required push. Calera is not going to do it for us, and we don't blame them.

Calera doesn't care if we never get any of the Birmingham-Montgomery traffic. That is natural and is not said here in any disparagement of Calera. Calera would be a poor and silly town if it were willing to sit still and see all the big roads built through some other place. And the same thing can be said about Montevallo. We can't blame Calera if they want all people who come to Montevallo to pass through Calera.

Maybe we have an opportunity for a highway from Bessemer through here extending on southward to Maplesville or Clanton. We do not know and we never will know until we do something to find out.

Nobody is coming here to ask our consent for a state highway to come through Montevallo. There are two many other towns that are alive, active, and seeking such opportunities.

We venture the guess that during this year the State Highway Department will officially designate a new highway route out of Birmingham with Montgomery as the destination to the South.

If such action is possible, we can find it out if we try. Then, if we try further, we can get that route through Montevallo.

What you say, we get busy and see about our possible opportunities?

Or shall we stay in the jug with our good friends in Calera sitting on the stopper?

Or shall we continue to let Montevallo be represented to the world outside of the jug as a town possessed with ancient and disproved fears that good road and highway improvement may lead some of our people out of the jug to spend a dollar somewhere else?

Tuscaloosa has got all the state politicians shouting for a paved highway to connect the University with the State Capital. That is because Tuscaloosa got busy and sold their own idea in Montgomery.

Now, relatively speaking, Tuscaloosa is no more important as an educational center than is Montevallo. It is just as important to the state to build a trunk highway through Montevallo as Tuscaloosa.

We can get the state to pull for us if we want to—but it can't be done if we are indifferent, careless, unconcerned, and if we turn to others the cold shoulder we gave the boys in Bessemer.

Mrs. G. C. Vaughn, Route 1, Gadsden, makes poultry pay. She began in September to sell fryers on the Gadsden curb market and has built up her trade until she sells 50 dressed fryers and some larger chickens every week. She built five brooder houses of pine slabs and lined them with paper boxes, and has already put 3,200 baby chicks in them this year.

High School Team
Has Successful Season

The Montevallo High School baseball club chalked up another victory Tuesday, defeating Thompson High 4 to 3 on the Siluria diamond. This win is the ninth in the ten-game league series.

Trailing Siluria 3 to 0 going into the fifth, Montevallo scored one run when Johnson singled and Williamson tripled. Coming back in the sixth, Lovelady was safe at first on a line drive to right field which the right fielder dropped. Lovelady stole second, then scored on Vaughan's infield hit. Vaughan stole second and scored on DeMent's blistering drive down third base line. DeMent stole second and was driven home with the winning run by "Chuck" Harrison.

Montevallo collected a total of six hits while Thompson got only five off the blinding fast ball of "Big Chuck" Harrison. The Montevallo club wins the cup offered by May and Greene Sporting Goods Store to the winner of the Central Alabama High School League. Farmers can plant feed crops for quail on their farm in May. Some crops recommended by A. M. Pearson, head of the wildlife research laboratory at Auburn, are browntop millet, German millet, lespedeza, mung beans, Laredo soybeans, cowpeas, sesbania, Florida beggarweed, and amber sorghum.

FARM NOTES

By A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent

By A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent

Congress recently passed an amendment providing that farmers would receive their benefit payments based on the allotted cotton acreage, without having to plant 80 per cent, or even any part of the allotment. I want to call attention to the fact that the payment on cotton is divided between landlord and tenant as the crop is divided; so in making the reduction, it should be made on a percentage basis and the money will be divided on the same basis. If the landlord or tenant leaves out his entire crop expecting to get all the rental money, he will be left out, or in case of the landlord, would only get the landlord's share of the rental money.

Side-dress corn with 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime when it has been planted about 40 days. Side-dressing will make from 50 to 100 per cent more corn on the same acreage; and every farmer needs more corn to feed livestock or poultry which should be a very definite part of every farm program in Shelby County.

O-too-tan soybeans make the best quality of hay of any of the soybean varieties. To make the most hay the beans should be planted in about 3-foot rows and fertilized with 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate per acre, and then cultivated lightly about twice. More good hay means more livestock and a larger income on the farm.

Trench silos can be dug and filled with very little money outlay and this type silo should be on every farm having 10 or more cattle. One acre of Texas seeded ribbon sorghum should be planted for each 5 cows. Plans and specifications for a trench silo will be furnished on request.

All poultry flocks, and especially growing pullets should have plenty of green feed. O-too-tan soybeans furnish a good quality of green feed and should be planted right away.

The women have gone even further and made rugs from knit materials and old stockings according to the above specifications.

COTTON BAGGING IS AVAILABLE FOR ALL COTTON

Auburn, Ala.—A recent amendment to the cotton bagging program of the United States Department of Agriculture makes it possible for cotton bagging to be obtained at low cost for all cotton in 1939. P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, has been advised. Last year this low cost bagging was available only to one-variety cotton improvement groups.

Experiments in the program in 1938 showed that the fabric developed for the purpose is suitable for the bale coverings and compares very favorably with bale covers made of other materials, according to Lawrence Myers, chief of the marketing section of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 900,000 covers, available for 45 cents per pattern, f. o. b., New Orleans, will be available this year. The bagging may be ordered any time up until June 30 and will be delivered in September or before. Last year 50,000 coverings were used, according to Mr. Myers.

Under the program, the manufacturer of cotton bale coverings, or patterns, receives from the government an indemnity payment of 28 cents each, enabling him to sell the patterns at 45 cents apiece. The prices of non-cotton coverings is about 73 cents, or practically the same as the over-all cost of the cotton coverings.

In addition, a large number of cotton merchants and exporters and mills having more than 10,000,000 spindles have agreed to make appropriate allowances in purchasing cotton for the lighter tare weight where the light weight cotton bale coverings are used instead of heavy bale coverings of other material.

Nitrogen Makes Good Corn Yield

Auburn, Ala.—Corn, which does not follow a good crop of winter legumes, should be side-dressed with 36 pounds of nitrogen (225 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent), about 30 to 40 days after planting, advises J. C. Lowery, agronomist of the Alabama Extension Service. It is important that side-dressing be done at this stage to get the greatest amount of corn for the nitrogen applied. Late applications may give some increase in the corn yield, but for the greatest amount of corn for the nitrogen applied, the side-dressing must be done in earlier stages of growth.

In tests conducted by the Alabama Experiment Station, the corn yield was increased about 18 bushels per acre by side-dressing with 36 pounds of nitrogen (225 pounds of nitrate of soda, or its equivalent). This increase was made at a fertilizer cost of 20 cents per bushel. In these tests, it was much cheaper to increase the corn yield with nitrogen than to apply at planting such fertilizers as 3-8-5, 4-8-4, or other grades.

A farmer planting 20 acres of corn might have ten acres following winter legumes, which would need no commercial nitrogen. The remaining ten acres should be side-dressed with up to 36 pounds of nitrogen per acre. By following this practice, farmers are finding that they can produce 500 bushels or more of corn per year; thereby having a good supply for the mules, cows, hogs, and chickens, and a surplus to feed to livestock which may be intended for the market.

Four 4-H Members Win Capital Trip

Auburn, Ala.—Four Alabama 4-H Club members—two boys and two girls—have been chosen to represent Alabama at the thirteenth National 4-H Club Camp to be held in Washington, D. C., June 15-21. T. A. Sims, state 4-H Club leader of the Alabama Extension Service, announced today.

Winners of the highest club honor, chosen because of their outstanding leadership, club activities, and their attempts to make 4-H Club work influence both themselves and other rural boys and girls, are Annette Jones, Newton, Dale County; Mary Guarisco, Daphne, Baldwin County; Thomas Howard Johnson, Jr., Reeltown, Tallapoosa County; and James Jerome Scott, Ider, DeKalb County.

These four outstanding club members have been chosen from more than 70,000 white club members of the state to receive the Washington trip. Qualifications, according to Mr. Sims, were not dependent upon the success of certain projects, but upon leadership in their respective clubs, their attendance at meetings, and their all-around 4-H Club work.

These delegates will be accompanied to Washington by members of the Alabama Extension Service staff. Practically every state in the United States will be represented at the national club camp. At the camp the members will hear addresses by national agricultural officials, participate in club conferences, and in recreational activities.

Mr. Reese Woolley spent the week-end at home with his family. Mr. Woolley is now employed by the state in the sales tax division of the finance department at the capitol.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday is "Youth Day" and both services will center around the appeal of Christ to youth. The pastor will preach Sunday morning on "The Two Life Patterns." At the Sunday evening service special recognition will be given to the senior students and a number of them will take part on the program. One of the high school glee clubs will sing at the morning service and the Junior Choir will sing at the evening service.

Study Club

nated their services. The sociology department of Alabama College also does most valuable work with this committee. The Montevallo Study Club is one of the few clubs in the state sponsoring this type of work.

With money made at a benefit bridge party, cash contributions were made to both the Boy and Girl Scouts; also a sum delegated to be used in helping build a tennis court at the high school.

The club is also very proud of its scholarship fund.

The programs of the year have been interesting and stimulating. Current plays and novels have been reviewed. For the open meeting Dr. I. T. Sanders of Alabama College, gave a delightfully informal talk about some of his travels in Europe. He centered his talk around experiences which came up through various methods of transportation.

The club members are: Mrs. G. P. Rogan, Mrs. M. P. Jeter, Mrs. N. E. Phillips, Mrs. L. C. Parnell, Mrs. F. W. Lacey, Mrs. E. D. Reynolds, Mrs. M. C. Jeter, Mrs. J. P. Kelly, Mrs. M. W. Fancher, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, Mrs. E. P. Hood, Mrs. E. H. Wills, Mrs. W. F. Tidwell, Mrs. W. D. Jackson, Mrs. F. P. Givhan, Mrs. J. F. Baker, Mrs. R. P. Holcomb, Mrs. W. L. Gravlee, Mrs. G. T. Towery, and Mrs. M. L. Orr.

Sweet Potatoes Are Coming Back

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama used to be one of the main sweet potato producing states, but lack of attention to quality, and to disease control has left Alabama farmers a long way to the rear in the production of yams, the delicacy that meets with equal approval in the North and South. In this day of keen competition in automobile manufacture, in packaged groceries, in clothes, and more particularly, in the products of the farm, there is no longer a place for average products. They have to be good—have to be better than the competitors' before they will sell rapidly.

In fact, one of the country's leading marketing specialists said recently that the principal reason why there was a surplus of all farm products was that there was so many inferior grades on the market with the good grades.

Sweet potatoes are coming back in Alabama. Taking a tip from Louisiana, where the experiment station has developed an improved strain of copper-skinned, average-size, Porto Rican potato, called Unit I, county agents have obtained seed of this new variety and are propagating it through demonstrations with farmers and 4-H Club members. Barbour, Houston, Coffee, Cullman, Baldwin, Geneva, and several other counties will produce additional seed this year.

These new potatoes are of a size that the housewife looks for in the grocery. They are smooth, attractive in color and flavor. And above all, when Alabama farmers put these new potatoes on the market, they are going to be attractively packed. Sweet potato production is coming back to Alabama.

Nature requires from 400 to 1,000 years to replace an inch of topsoil.
